

1. Why did the Prep name change to Cloverbud?

The 4-H Cloverbud program is a nationally recognized program for younger 4-H members. Many states are already using the Cloverbud name. As of September 1, 2009, New Jersey is aligning itself with the majority of the country.

2. What is the difference between the Prep program and the Cloverbud program?

The Prep program was open only to youth in grades 1-3. The NJ 4-H Cloverbud program is open to youth in grades K-3. This also aligns with the majority of states who involve kindergarten students (youth age 5) in their program.

3. What happens to the prep materials that have already been purchased?

The transition period, during which Prep promotion materials may be used, is one year. If any county feels as though this will be a real hardship for them, they may contact the FCS committee. Creative ways to exhaust supplies are highly recommended.

4. Is this coming from the National 4-H Program?

No, it is not. The Family and Consumer Science committee sent a survey to counties to be distributed both electronically and by hard copy. The survey dealt with improving the program to include Kindergarten (just as other youth serving organizations do.) This survey was the basis for the update of the program. The Rutgers Cooperative Extension Department of 4-H Youth Development faculty and staff made this decision with input of nearly 150 volunteers from around the state.

5. Why was the name “Cloverbud” chosen?

The name “Cloverbud” is recognized through the 4-H community, and allows for more consistency between states. Outside the 4-H community, the 4-H clover is a highly recognizable “trademark.” Using the term Cloverbud indicates a direct link to the 4-H emblem. The original name of Prep came about in the early to mid 1980s and was derived from the idea of young 4-H’ers being a part of a Preparatory 4-H program where they explored a variety of project areas. The concepts behind the Prep program are not changing, just the name.

6. What does changing the name do for NJ 4-H?

It positions the NJ 4-H program for more creative marketing opportunities. Because this is a name that is recognized on a national level, it also allows Cloverbud members to feel like a bigger part of the overall 4-H program.

7. How can volunteers help with the transition?

Volunteers who are interested in working with younger youth can start a Cloverbud club, or work with 4-H Club leaders that have younger 4-H members in existing 4-H clubs. Volunteers can also help by promoting the new 4-H Cloverbud program in their local communities.

8. Why are Cloverbud leaders so important?

Cloverbud leaders are very important people. They serve as role models to these younger 4-H members. They are also responsible for making sure that the child’s first 4-H experience is a positive one.
